THE SPECT OF GENERAL GRAYTS TRUE.

The belief seemed widesprad among intelligent officers that the United state government had pledged itself to grant no amnesties for the offence of treason, and that they must stall hang tog-ther or hang separately." On learning that General Grant had taken no advantage of their no suites and desperate situation, but had voluntarily extended to them the same magnanium materms offered to days before and refused by G neral Lee, they appreced thouselves exceedingly gratified. Ditions on strengthen this fo ling. All admitted that their army had no further power of resistance, and that it was omplied to sure near on our own terms. They app ar d surprised to find no exhibition of violabilities of our part. It dying from their hearty contensions of generous and liberal treatment by us one would doned no they are pected to hat a been chained together as felons to grant the tri mphal march of our ri tachous generous.

At first some may be included to think General Grant not assignmently exacting. But no one who witnessed the technology of the rebelofficers and inscend to their ones reation on the subject could long doubt the wisdom of his policy.
